Politics and Justice

HERE is nothing particularly new in the Wickersham Commission's remarks about the evil effects of politics on the administration of criminal justice in the United States.
 Every man who has had occasion to match criminal courts and prosecutors' offices at close range has been saying the same thing, privately, for years.

The important thing now is that the commission, by making its report to President Hoover, is focussing public attention on the matter. It probably will take the public a full generation to get concerned enough to do anything about it, but a late start is much better than no start at all.

Reading the commission's findings, one can understand why we have "crime waves," underworld "kings," big-time grafters and all the rest. The present set-up is made to order for such phenomena. It helps to produce them.

The commission points out that the average prosecutor holds office for only a short term. His assistants are appointed chiefly for reasons of political patronage. The relations of his office with the political leaders, from the big shots down to the ward leaders, are extremely intimate.

In addition, the woods are full of lawyers whose one asset is their political influence. They keep their clients out of jail, not through legal ability but through the fix. They seldom appear in court because they do not need to. They know somebody in the prosecutor's office; that is enough.

Under such circumstances, is it any wonder that bootlegers, grafters of high and low degree, underworld leaders of all descriptions and a whole host of crooks of other varieties flourish through the courts unsanctified? The same system that gives a parking ticket for John Citizen, who has a friend who knows somebody with influence, prevents society from even beginning to deal effectively with its worst enemies.

If the Wickersham report on this one point can jar the public into activity, the commission will have justified its existence. For a great many years we have been kidding ourselves, wondering why so much crime went unpunished when the answer was obvious to everyone who was at all familiar with the facts. Until the prosecutor's office, the criminal court and the police department can be removed from political influence our administration of justice will continue to be inefficient and frequently scandalous matter that it is today.

More Facts and Figures

COPY this from one of our "house organ" journals published by a large co-operative association:

"Co-operative marketing of farm products will continue to make progress against all opposition because it is eternally right in principle."

No, it won't.
 The world is full of right principles that are not in active use, like the right of every child to an education, the right of every man to a job of work, the right of every person to happiness, to say nothing of the "right" of the religion of Jesus Christ, which over night, if followed by all of us in letter and in spirit, would solve all our problems of every kind.

Co-operative marketing will succeed because of a widespread intelligent and aggressive support on the part of producers. This support must be expressed through competent boards of directors which will employ highly competent management, both of which will so conduct their associations that they can compete with private organizations engaged in handling the same product.

It is highly important in all of our affairs that we start with a right principle. But after that success depends upon the application of that principle.

Many a co-operative has failed because it was organized on a wrong plan, because the members didn't support it properly or because the board of directors turned the association over to the manager, who in turn failed at his job.

I often wish our co-operative journals would deal more in facts and figures about the operation of their associations and less in generalities, which generalities often read suspiciously like propaganda.—Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

A Sharp Question

AMERICANS, used to accepting the expenditure of millions of dollars on radio programs and calmly sure that the listener must not be "burdened" by any part of the cost, are apt to be startled by the common-sense question of Sir John C.
 W. Reith, director-general of the British Broadcasting Corporation: "I don't find anyone who likes the advertising talks on the radio; why continue to have them?"

Sir John's company, the B.B.C., does not intersperse its programs with selling talk. The radio programs in the newspapers do not contain publicity for business firms. Listeners do not have to write mentally at things they do not want to hear, in order to get the things they do want to hear. Friction between British newspapers and radio is non-existent.

And the "burden" on British listeners is $2.50 a year, 21 cents a month, paid for a license to use a receiving set.

"Your country is better off than ours. If the English workingman can afford to pay $2.50 a year, can't Americans afford it? Many persons in this country have told me they would be glad to pay twice the British fee if they could have high-class programs with no advertising," says Sir John.

Obviously, broadcasting can't go on unless money is provided. The advertising plan is on trial in the court of public opinion.—Editor & Publisher, New York.

Another of Those Tiresome Piano-Sittin' g Acts!

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 10.—For the past several years of peacetime the War Department has been bringing to the attention of various industries their wartime responsibilities and giving them estimates of the wartime demands of the army and navy on their plants.

Approximately "15,000 large facilities" have been surveyed, according to the army's war plans as submitted to the War Policies Commission. Definite tasks for emergency have been assigned to each selected plant. In order not to upset national production more than necessary and to maintain normal commercial contacts on a reduced basis, such tasks do not involve more than 50 per cent of a plant's normal capacity.

Under the National Defense Act, the War Department points out, the government can place compulsory orders with any factory and is empowered to requisition such plants as may refuse to accept them.

Plan Advisory Council

The war plans call for an "Advisory War Council" to assist the president in carrying on the conflict. Besides the secretaries of war and navy, this council would include a Director of Selective Service, Director of War Industry,

Director of Public Relations and Administrator of Labor.

This is part of a general plan which, according to General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, is based on a great improvement on our 1917 position in that besides the skeletonized framework of a citizen army capable of rapidly absorbing the nation's man power, the army now maintains intimate contact with the industrial structure under a program which will enable American industry promptly to absorb our war requirements.

Delay in procurement of necessary munitions and supplies, guess-work about the amounts of supplies needed which results in wasteful overproduction and serious shortages, improper distribution of the war production load along with congestion and transportation facilities, inefficient use of resources, unco-ordinated purchases and unequal distributions of war burdens are some of the things which the War Department, profiting from lessons of the last war, will seek to avoid in any big future conflict.

The army's shopping list included about 700,000 different items in the World War, but the so-called vitality essential list now comprises about 4,000 articles complete for issue.

Cut Down Competition

Instead of throwing open their procurement necessities to competitive bidding, the War and Navy Departments will base their procurement plans on allocation. Under this system plants are able to make some preparation for their tasks, prices can better be determined by negotiation and through definite assignments; exact pre-arrangement for production of munitions can be obtained.

Many articles required in war are not ordinarily produced in this country, so the War Department has assembled a great collection of complete drawings and specifications for delivery to manufacturers who would otherwise have no prior knowledge of applicable production methods. To develop this form of war preparation constant experimentation and actual production is in progress at government arsenals and laboratories. The War Department now seeks money from Congress, for placing "educational orders" with factories, use of which would hasten production in any later emergency.

The army also has widespread plans to govern handling of raw materials in wartime, especially those not readily produced in this country.

Among its designs for reduction of wartime profiteering is an adjusted compensation contract, applicable to large construction jobs and procurement of non-commercial items. Tentative cost schedules would be agreed upon which might be revised from time to time. The government would audit all accounts as they arose and pay all approved costs of performance, plus a rate of six per cent a year on the value of the plant invoiced in the contract.

A Hollywood actress has insured her fingers for $100,000. Which is rather a high price for a couple of stude hands.

as he does shooting pains.

When a gangster staggers a victim with a bullet, that is also a reel and

Drouth Relief Forms Bring Shower of Eggs

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Varied forms of drouth relief have brought a shower of eggs in the states stricken in 1930.
The department of agriculture said Wednesday the states most seriously affected last year are producing from 5 to 12 per cent more eggs now than they were in 1930.
The country as a whole showed a dairy production two per cent under that of this time last year.

Paris Man Is Knocked Out of Shoes by Bolt

PARIS, Texas—(AP)—Struck by a bolt of lightning as he ran through the rain to his automobile, Jack Lewis, 23, was knocked out of his shoes Tuesday and hurled dazed but unhurt 15 feet away.
The same bolt entered Lewis' house, tore three logs from the bureau, smashed seven windows, and set the buildings on fire. Traveling into a house next door, it broke several windows and an electric clock standing on a radio set, while the radio played on undamaged.
Don't worry if you seem to be another "Jonah." Remember that he came out all right.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

An Obscure Event
BOBBY JONES won the British Amateur last year. It was no more than fitting that a man named Smith should take the honors this season. Eric Martin Smith is the name of the British Amateur champion for 1931. But, without Jones, the British Amateur has become just another unknown event.
With Jones out of the way, this may be a big year for the Smiths. Macdonald Smith has been at Carnoustie for weeks, practicing for the British Open. Horton Smith, who has been off his game a bit lately, also will try for the prize. Other Americans seeking the apollis are Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Joe Tarnesa, Joe Kirkwood and Tony Nissen. Our choice is Mac Smith, a choice based upon his great showing during the last few years. Mac is a fighter. He never has won a national tournament, though he came dangerously close several times only to miss the prize in the last few holes. He is determined to win at Carnoustie, his home course.

The Sophomores
LIKE sophomores were Willie Stribling and Max Schmeling when they met the other night at Cleveland and posed shaking hands for the photographers. After the shutters clicked, Willie playfully slapped Maxie, old boy, on the shoulder and gave him a good-natured shove. They might have been a couple of college sophomores meeting at a prom.
We are hoping on the evening of July 3, however, that they will not look like college sophomores and that the affair in Cleveland's new stadium will not be a prom.

Bat waded into the clever Fidel time and again, keeping the offensive throughout, taking plenty of clean wallops throughout it is true, but retaining his featherweight championship on the strength of his will to fight rather than on points of skill. Bat is durable and after the bout looked as though he could step 10 more rounds without fatigue. While Bat is not to be compared to such men as Johnny Dundee and Kilbane, he gives promise of becoming a great champion.

This year the Babe picked the Robins to win the flag, and he has refused to change his mind in the face of the terrible start the Robins got. Your correspondent also picked the Robins this year, but is beginning to weaken under the strain. Those Giants look grand.

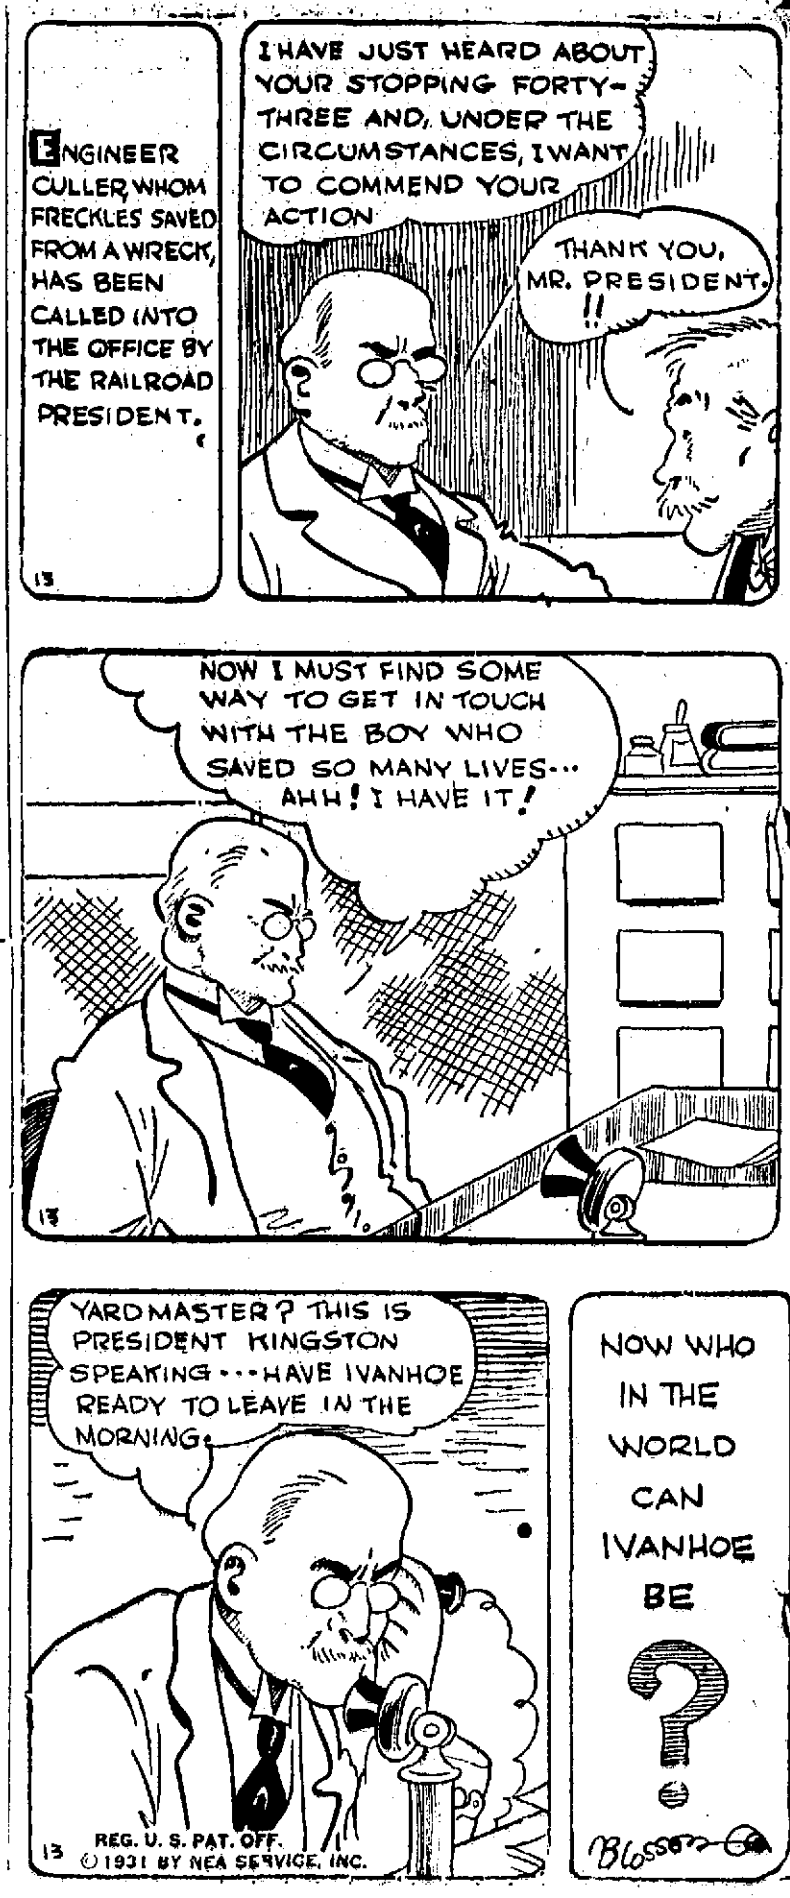

Where Balloonists' Adventure Ended on Alpine Glacier

From start to finish it had been one of the most fantastic adventures in history. Professor Auguste Piccard, and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, Swiss scientists, had ascended nearly ten miles into the earth's upper atmosphere in a sealed gondola attached to a balloon. For nearly 18 hours they had drifted helplessly, nearly exhausting their supply of oxygen, until the balloon finally settled among the jagged Alps of the Austrian Tyrol. But by a lucky chance the huge came to rest on a snowfield of the Gurgl glacier. Piccard and Kipfer were met by a rescue expedition and here you see the entire party on the glacier folding up the balloon where the landing was effected. This NEA Service-Hope Star picture was transmitted to London by telephoto, thence sent to America on a fast liner.

CATALOG BY JULY 15
Contract With Amusement Company Was Signed Last Week

The annual Southwest Arkansas Fair will be held in this city September 21 to 25 inclusive, according to announcements from the fair management Monday. With splendid prospects for bountiful crops in this section, it is the intention of the fair committee to make the 1931 exposition the most successful in the history of the event from the standpoint of educational and entertainment features.

The premium list has been completely revised and will include attractive cash premiums on all classes of educational, agricultural, horticultural, canning, textile, poultry, livestock and industrial exhibits. Many special premiums will also be offered in the various departments by the business men of this section. In keeping with the agricultural program for 1931, strong emphasis is being placed on exhibits of small grains, legumes and other feed crops. Never in the history of Southwest Arkansas has there been such a crop of oats and other feed crops as was planted this year and a splendid exhibit of these products will be shown at the fair this fall. The fair catalog is now being compiled and will be ready for distribution early in July.

Contracts have already been signed with one of the cleanest amusement companies in the country to furnish the midway attractions. These will consist of eight modern riding devices, fifteen shows and numerous other entertaining features.

The fair budget is being planned so as to pay all expenses incident to the 1931 fair and to take care of the deficit that was carried over from last year.

The fair committee this year consists of Terrell Cornelius, E. E. Austin, Luther F. Higgins, Martin Pool, Robt. Huguinin, Thurman Rhodes, W. R. Alexander, Alex. Washburn, Riley Lewallen, Geo. Johnson, and W. Homer Pigg. All community committees and superintendents will be announced within the next few days.

Caraway Hits at Republican Party
'Feed Them' Motto Would Be Widely Popular Says Arkansan

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, Sunday used the conference of "Young Republicans" in Washington as the basis for an attack upon the Hoover administration.

"The Young Republicans, who by the way averaged about 55 years of age, have concluded a very 'successful' conference in Washington," he said. "They were addressed by that ardent young Republican, Senator Simon D. Fess of Ohio, and stage managed by that Liberal, Robert H. Lucas.

"It remained, however, for the crowning gesture to be made by William Sherman Green, Republican from New Jersey, who said the way to get enthusiasm among Republicans was to feed them—and feed them plenty."

"The truth is 'feed them' has been the cry of seven millions of honest working men and their dependents who have been reduced to beggary under this progressive administration of Mr. Hoover and in whose honor to applaud these Young Republicans were called to Washington."

LITTLE ROCK, (AP)—Because of bad weather in Kentucky and Tennessee a list-minute change was made Monday afternoon of the scheduled plans for the celebration here Monday afternoon of the inauguration of the air mail line over Arkansas.

Bad weather caused the cancellation of plans for the visit here of postal and American Airways, Inc. officials from Kentucky, but officials from Dallas, the southern terminus of the line, are expected to participate regardless.

Despite the weather, the mail is expected to go through on schedule the first day, being transferred to smaller, fast planes.

Mayor Horace Knowlton will introduce Congressman Carl H. Beyer, who will officiate as master of ceremonies at the celebration.

—By Williams R. H. Bowen Finishes Tuesday at Illinois

URBANA, CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—All records will be shattered here Tuesday afternoon when President Harry Woodburn Chase confers degrees on University of Illinois graduates at the 60th Annual Commencement. Including the degrees conferred Saturday by the Chicago departments, the number will exceed more than 2,300, some 200 more than ever have been granted by the University at one time.

The list includes one from Hope and a total of eight from Arkansas. The Hope graduate is Robert H. Bowen, son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Bowen, who will receive the degree of bachelor of science.

These young graduates have seen Wyoming through perhaps perhaps partment Monday that life. The large, the Arctic submarine Nautilus, knots an hour on a course east, northeast from its position in mid-Atlantic where she became disabled Sunday.

Since early Sunday morning the Wyoming and Arkansas, now on midshipmen's cruise, to European waters, have been standing by the disabled submarine.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, commander of the submarine, reported that one of the ship's diesel engines, which supply surface power, had stalled.

The submarine uses diesel oil engines when on top of the water and electric motors when submerged. The oil engines also are used to charge the submarine's electric storage batteries when cruising on the surface.

One feature of the Nautilus, not usually found in submarines, is a large breather pipe, the conning tower, which permits the submarine to bore through many feet of ice and obtain air not only for her crew but also to operate the diesel engines while under water, in the event that the ship should be submerged so long as to exhaust the crew's air and the storage battery's electricity.

The message Monday from the Wyoming said it was estimated the Nautilus course at the present speed of towing would take it into Queens-town, nearly 900 miles distant.

Cotton Maintains Low Price Level
Not Much Change in Market for Week Ending June 12

MEMPHIS, (U. S. Dept. Agriculture)—The cotton market during the period June 8th to 12th witnessed rather wide fluctuations with quotations however on June 12th but little changed from those of June 8th.

On June 8th prices touched a new low point for the season so far when the average of the ten markets for middling 7-8 inch stood at 7.62 cents. Demand the past week was said to have improved somewhat for spot cotton with holders increasing their asking basis for almost all grades and staples. Several private estimates of the 1931 cotton acreage have recently made their appearance. The government figures on the acreage in cultivation on July 1st will be released on July 8th at 11 a. m. eastern time.

According to the Weather Bureau for the week ending June 9th temperatures averaged near normal in nearly all sections of the cotton belt and the week was mostly fair, there being only limited areas with appreciable rains. It was the warmest week of the season so far over considerable portions of the belt. Average price of middling 7-8 inch as compiled from the quotations of the ten designated markets on June 12 was 8.07 cents compared with 7.96 cents June 5th and 13.28 cents on the corresponding day a year ago.

Exports were in fair volume the past week and to June 12th amounted to about 6,400,000 bales against 6,500,000 for the corresponding period last season. Stocks of American cotton at European ports on June 5th amounted to about 1,400,000 bales against 1,000,000 last year and 1,200,000 the year before.

New England mill centers said that on account of the slowness in cotton cloth sales transactions in raw cotton were rather limited. It was said also that buying of cottons in the medium and better grades in lengths of 7-8 inch to 1-1 1/2 inch continued to take place by New England interests for southern consumption. Raw cotton quotations in some instances were said to have been raised from 5 to 10 points although this was not very general. Cloth buying was said to be at a standstill on account of the action of the raw cotton markets.

Dry goods centers reported quiet conditions. According to the Hunter Manufacturing Company of New York, "National Cotton Week" brought unusual activity to the big retail stores and sales of cotton are said to have broken all records, and retail stocks must have been tremendously cut into but so far the Worth street district has not felt the result.

—By Williams R. H. Bowen Finishes Tuesday at Illinois

URBANA, CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—All records will be shattered here Tuesday afternoon when President Harry Woodburn Chase confers degrees on University of Illinois graduates at the 60th Annual Commencement. Including the degrees conferred Saturday by the Chicago departments, the number will exceed more than 2,300, some 200 more than ever have been granted by the University at one time.

The list includes one from Hope and a total of eight from Arkansas. The Hope graduate is Robert H. Bowen, son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Bowen, who will receive the degree of bachelor of science.

These young graduates have seen Wyoming through perhaps perhaps partment Monday that life. The large, the Arctic submarine Nautilus, knots an hour on a course east, northeast from its position in mid-Atlantic where she became disabled Sunday.

Since early Sunday morning the Wyoming and Arkansas, now on midshipmen's cruise, to European waters, have been standing by the disabled submarine.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, commander of the submarine, reported that one of the ship's diesel engines, which supply surface power, had stalled.

The submarine uses diesel oil engines when on top of the water and electric motors when submerged. The oil engines also are used to charge the submarine's electric storage batteries when cruising on the surface.

One feature of the Nautilus, not usually found in submarines, is a large breather pipe, the conning tower, which permits the submarine to bore through many feet of ice and obtain air not only for her crew but also to operate the diesel engines while under water, in the event that the ship should be submerged so long as to exhaust the crew's air and the storage battery's electricity.

The message Monday from the Wyoming said it was estimated the Nautilus course at the present speed of towing would take it into Queens-town, nearly 900 miles distant.

Cotton Maintains Low Price Level
Not Much Change in Market for Week Ending June 12

MEMPHIS, (U. S. Dept. Agriculture)—The cotton market during the period June 8th to 12th witnessed rather wide fluctuations with quotations however on June 12th but little changed from those of June 8th.

On June 8th prices touched a new low point for the season so far when the average of the ten markets for middling 7-8 inch stood at 7.62 cents. Demand the past week was said to have improved somewhat for spot cotton with holders increasing their asking basis for almost all grades and staples. Several private estimates of the 1931 cotton acreage have recently made their appearance. The government figures on the acreage in cultivation on July 1st will be released on July 8th at 11 a. m. eastern time.

According to the Weather Bureau for the week ending June 9th temperatures averaged near normal in nearly all sections of the cotton belt and the week was mostly fair, there being only limited areas with appreciable rains. Airport Is Improved to Gain Federal Top Rank

ST. LOUIS. — (P) — Following installation of additional floodlights and radio facilities, Lambert-St. Louis field has been given an A-1-A rating, the highest awarded by the aeronautics branch of the United States department of commerce. It is one of six fields in the country to be so designated. When first used as a municipal landing field, in 1928, the field measured 169 acres. It has been increased to 560 acres in area, with 3,000 feet of hard-surfaced runways. About 400 acres are suitable for landing purposes, while along one side is a concrete apron 2,500 feet long and 200 feet wide.

Doak Praises Parents of Lincoln in Address

HARRODSBURG, Ky. — (P) — William N. Doak, United States secretary of labor, paid tribute to Thomas and Nancy Lincoln, parents of Abraham Lincoln, in an address here Friday at Pioneer Memorial state park dedicating a temple enclosing the cabin in which they were married 125 years ago.

Doak described the father of Lincoln as a "man of faith—one who did his duty to his family and to the community in which he lived." Commenting on the hardships suffered by Thomas Lincoln's family, Doak remarked, "It is not necessary, however, to spread abroad untruths about the characters of men and women to accentuate the greatness of their offspring." The hills and "lofty peaks" of the state that produced Abraham Lincoln "make for that sanity of mind which condenses class consciousness, race hatred and religious bigotry," said Doak.

WEAK, SICK, BUT DIDN'T GIVE UP

Strength Gradually Came Back After Lady Had Taken Cardui for a While.

"I was weak and sickly and felt like giving up, but after taking a few bottles of Cardui I felt better and regained my strength," writes Mrs. J. J. Monk, of 1450 Barry Avenue, Dallas, Texas.

"I was badly run-down. I dragged around the house, and was unable to do housework. I felt so weak and sickly—I felt more than once like giving up. I was awfully discouraged. After I got some Cardui and began taking it, I soon began to get better. Gradually my strength has come back, and now I can do my housework. I can always praise Cardui for what it has done for me, and I hope that all women who are weak and sickly will take Cardui, for I do think that Cardui is a wonderful medicine for women."

Go to your druggist, (or phone him), for a bottle of Cardui, today, and give this old, well-known medicinal tonic a thorough trial. It may do you a lot of good, like it has so many others.

A party of a dozen local people enjoyed a river excursion and dance aboard the S. S. Ouchitah sailing from Camden Friday night, returning to that city about midnight. They met Capt. L. V. Cooley, skipper of the Ouchitah and hero of countless river stories written around the Ouchitah. Red and Black rivers by Roak Bradford in Collier's and the Saturday Evening Post. Capt. Cooley, they found, was very far from being the boisterous, rough and ready river captain popular of old river fiction.

One of the guests praised the really excellent negro dance orchestra which was playing for the 200 people on board, when Captain Cooley said, "And you think they are really good?" "Yes," was the reply. "Well," said the captain, "you aren't much of a judge

St. Louis Stronger in the National—Washington Nears Athletics

The Cardinals took a better grip on first place in the National League Sunday by defeating the Phillies in both ends of a double-header, while the Giants were taking second place over the Chicago Cubs with a victory against Cincinnati.

St. Louis won both its games against Philadelphia by virtue of fast and frequent stick work, rolling up 11 hits in the first game, which was a 7-3 victory, and 14 hits in the nightcap, which went to St. Louis 13-4.

The Giants downed Cincinnati 3 to 2, while Chicago was losing to the Boston Braves 3 to 1. The Braves proved one of the severest stumbling blocks in the league, taking three out of four from the Cardinals, and then moving to Chicago to strew disaster in the path of the third-place Cubs, who only on Saturday were in second position. The Brooklyn Robins smashed

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—The court of appeals has decided Daisy De Boe, convicted of stealing an emerald coat from Clara Bow, must serve a jail term of 18 months of her penitentiary sentence of five years.

Pittsburgh 6 to 3 in the other National League contest.

In the American League, the Cleveland Indians won their first victory of the season over the world champion Athletics. Philadelphia lost 6 to 4 when Pitcher Bill Sholes made a series of wild throws and fielding errors.

The Washington Senators ran their winning streak to nine straight with a 9-3 victory over the St. Louis Browns, and came up 11 within three games of the league-leading Athletics.

Detroit defeated the New York Yankees 4 to 2, in 10 innings, the loss being the first for Pitcher Gomez after five consecutive wins. Babe Ruth, batting leader of the American, went hitless in four times at bat, and the best his teammates could do was six hits off Sorrell, the Detroit hurler.

The Chicago White Sox defeated Boston 7 to 4.

Twenty Grand Is Belmont Winner

Derby Victor Practically Equals Man O'War's 1 1/2 Mile Record

BELMONT PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—Twenty Grand, the big red colt who won this year's Kentucky Derby, definitely established himself as the premier 3-year-old in the business by outrunning Sun Meadow and Jamestown to win the historic Belmont Stakes here Saturday.

Twenty Grand came home in 2:29 3/5, two seconds better than the time last year of Earl Sande aboard Gallant Fox; and less than a second behind the course record of 2:28 4/5 established by Man O'War in 1920. But Twenty Grand carried a 126-pound jockey while Man O'War's man weighed but 118.

Belmont folks picked Twenty Grand to win, but bet that Jamestown would finish second. The big red colt let Jamestown set the pace for most of the first mile, and then closed in with a tremendous sprint that Jamestown lost heart. Twenty

Young Chevrolet employees found the vault shattered when they opened up for business Monday morning. City police checked the building at midnight Sunday, and believe the robbery took place just before day-break. Nothing of value was taken from the auto showroom the bandits concentrating their efforts on the big safe.

The residence of the Rev. W. R. Anderson, East Second street and not far from the motor company's offices, was entered through a screened window Sunday night while the family were at the First Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Mr. Anderson is pastor. The home was ransacked, but nothing of value had been missed up to noon Monday.

Robbery Near Rosston

Over in Nevada county, Sheriff E. H. Weaver told The Star he captured an auto thief and store robber in a Grand won by eight lengths, and Sun Meadow just nosed out Jamestown for second place.

The victory was worth $58,770 to the winner, boosting Twenty Grand's total earnings to $184,075. Fifth thousand persons saw the race.

John Boles and Genevieve Tobin Featured in Interesting Story

"Seed" the Universal road show attraction taken from the Charles G. Norris novel of that name scored a tremendous success hit with the first day audience at the Malco Saenger

The man gave his name as Ralph C. Snyder, of Des Moines, Iowa. Sheriff Weaver recovered a car Snyder confessed stealing from Luther Honea, of near Laneburg, Nevada county. The man also admitted to the sheriff that he robbed the store of Ed Fincher, four miles west of Rosston.
